Examples of public vs private blockchains

Commercial blockchains are more likely to use private, permissioned architecture.

Public (Permissionless)
- Transactions are viewable by anyone
- Anyone can join, read, write and commit

Private (Permissioned)
- Only authorised participants can join, read and write

Source: White & Case